This Bulletin is brought to you by donations from Don Black (Deceased), George Gander, Thelma Tuttle (In Memory of Roy Tuttle), Don Watts & Ron Watts.

As most of you know, the Messes at Wolseley Barracks are being moved to Beaver Hall and the three Mess buildings are slated for demolition. Our last meeting was held at the Victory Branch Legion. As of February, we will meet at the Byron Legion. They give us the room for free and I have given them a list of our meeting dates until June.

This Bulletin contains a list of 1st Hussar WWII veterans who have recently received the French Legion of Honour medals. Several of these were presented at the tank in Victoria Park after our Remembrance Day Service. Congratulations to all! Nick Corrie has been busy creating a 1H film which will be screened at a later date. This film documents the history and achievements of the 1st Hussars throughout the years. We also have an article on S.S. Laurentic by Don Bondy and the story of Michelle Lundy's quest for the unidentified gentleman in her grandfather's pictures and the serendipitous outcome.

Please note that the information on the trip to Holland (May 2015) is available to those who wish to participate. Our next issue of the Bulletin will have coverage of the 1H Christmas party in Sarnia. Have a happy holiday season & a bright New Year.

A message from the Editor:

Season's Greetings to all members of the 1st Hussars Association. As 2014 is wrapping up, I would like to take the opportunity to thank those who have helped me feel a welcome part of the 1st Hussars family. I would also like to mention that if you are not already a member of the 1st Hussars Association, please consider joining in 2015. Your yearly dues of $20 allows us to continue providing the Bulletin, as well as helps to fund the many endeavours that the Association puts together to keep the ties of the regimental family firmly knotted. The Association form is included in this publication, and can also be found at:

<http://www.firsthussars.ca/#!membership/c1qc1>

If you have any questions, comments or ideas of what you might like to see in your regimental newsletter, please contact me. I can be reached at 1sthussarsbulletin@gmail.com.

Knights of Armour:
French Legion of Honour Medal
Recipients
By Michelle Lundy

On Sunday, November 9th 2014, both past and present 1st Hussars gathered in remembrance as they do every year, but this year was unique.

We also paid respects to the 1st Hussars WWII veterans who had been awarded the rank of Knight of the National Order of the Legion of Honour. This award of high distinction recently came from the French Government for a soldier's participation on D-Day, and ultimately the liberation of France in 1944.

A number of 1st Hussars veterans were recipients of the honour. In attendance on November 9th were Bill Bury, Phil Cockburn & Jim Fisher. Ken MacGillivray of the Regina Rifles was recognized during the ceremony as well.

Another 1st Hussar, Harold Duggan was honoured during a separate observance in Barrie, ON.

John Potter and Bill Reed were not present at the ceremony, but have been awarded the medal. Marshall Dejaegher, who had also been nominated, regrettably passed away in August.

Congratulations to these exemplary veterans in recognition for their service overseas.

"From Horses to Horsepower"

The Story of the First Hussars

By Nick Corrie

*Scrap metal for training –

"From Horses to Horsepower" - The Story of the First Hussars is believed to be the only attempt to record the Regiment's history on film. Produced by Honorary Colonel Andre Maas and sponsored by the Cavalry Fund, 158 years of history is depicted utilising archival film footage stretching back to cavalry training at Port Stanley in the 1920's and 30's.

A special highlight is discovering good colour film depicting the Regiment's 1940-41 tank training at Camp Borden in their "newly" acquired Renault tanks bought from the US as scrap metal. The film continues through WWII and into the post war period training in Shermans at Camps Petawawa, Borden and Meaford, finally winding up our history recognising the Regiment's contribution with modern day postings to Bosnia, Somalia and Afghanistan.

Throughout the film's 30 minutes, the viewer's attention is drawn to the fact that despite all the changes over the years, from a warm horse to cold steel, the army barely changes at all: summers under canvas, cold shaves outdoors, latrines and lots and lots of parades - good old square bashing - is common to all eras.

The film's premier will be held in the coming new year; date and time to be announced - stay tuned!

1st Hussars Museum Report

By Steve Liggett

The Museum closed, except by appointment, on November 12. We will reopen regularly, on Saturdays and holidays, starting April 18, 2015.

The biggest event for the Museum during the year is Doors Open London. This is a two day event that takes place on the last weekend in September. The Museum was open on Saturday September 27 and Sunday September 28 from 10:00 am to 4:00 pm. The Regiment sent a G Wagon and three soldiers: MCpl Gomes, Cpl Roome and Tpr Loiselle. Ron Janus set up a display and sold items from the Kit Shop. We also had members of No 9 Cadet Corps wearing period (mostly World War 2) uniforms from the Museum's collection. Don Bondy and Joe Murray showed people around, explained the displays and told stories from the Regiment's history. Alastair Neely, Michelle Lundy, Nick Corrie and Jeff Dunham also lent a hand. We had the two best days of the year in terms of attendance. There were 157 visitors on Saturday and 129 on Sunday.

In other news, the Museum Committee has been busy lately completing the inventory of the items in storage. The uniforms had not been listed properly. That task was successfully completed by Mike Steele, Pat O'Hagan, Michelle Lundy, Nick Corrie and Don Bondy.

If you would like to visit the Museum, before we reopen in April, please call 519-455-4533.

“Operation Surprise”

Col Jim Thompson had taken a spill earlier in the fall and was still in the process of recovering. On October 8th, the former CO's decided to drop by and cheer him up. Col Maas, Col Drake, the current and former HCol dropped in along with Col Judd, and LCol Murray, Haley, Thompson, Brown and Major Mike Steele (who organized everyone.) General Beverly Thompson was in on the operation. We did manage to drink all of Col Jim's beer. A very good time was had by all.

The National War and Resistance Museum of the Netherlands is located in Overloon, Holland. It is on the site where WWII infantry and tank battles occurred between September and October 1944. Joe and Nancy Murray had the opportunity to visit when scouting out locations for the May 2015 pilgrimage to Holland. It is a stop on the itinerary and details about the trip can be found on the last page of the Bulletin.

1H On Board S.S. "Laurentic"

By Don Bondy

S.S. Laurentic

Photo submitted by Don Bondy

The S.S. "Laurentic" carried 1st Hussars soldiers across the Atlantic during WWI. 'C' Squadron of the 1st Hussars were in Amherstburg, ON at that time. When war was declared, the squadron was told to report to Valcartier, where they became #1 platoon A Company 1st Battalion of the 1st Division Canadian Infantry. The Thomas brothers were Hussars in that platoon, Murray as an officer and Albert a corporal.

The following is a fine example of one of the letters written by L. Murray Thomas, and published in the Amherstburg Echo in 1914.

On board S.S. "Laurentic."

12-10-14.

Lat, 50-14 N. Long. 16-11 W.

The Editor of The Echo:-

Our long ocean voyage is nearly over, we expect to reach Southampton tomorrow night and to disembark on Wednesday. We broke camp at Valcartier on September 25th, and have been on the water ever since. The Royal Canadian Dragoons of Toronto, and the Medical Corps, along with the 1st Battalion, total about 1500 strong, make up the troops on board this palatial steamer. The officers are travelling first-class, the non-coms, second, and the privates third. The men are well fed and are a most contented lot. Judging from our trip so far one would think that we were bound on a mission of pleasure than one bent on destruction.

We were not at all sorry to leave camp. We were all anxious to be on our way to the front. The five weeks we spent there were ones filled with lots of work, and soon we'll be at it again, only harder. It so happened; that it rained the morning -we left home, it was raining when we arrived at camp and also when we left Valcartier. However, the weather since has been ideal, we experienced no rough weather on our trip across the pond, and what's more we saw no sight of the German navy; well for them that they didn't show up, for we were well protected.

There are 32 transports carrying the troops, horses etc. We are protected by 8 cruisers and 3 superdreadnoughts. The transports are formed in three columns, each headed by cruisers, then there are cruisers in rear and to the flanks. The dreadnoughts are well out in front and to the flanks. Some of the finest ships afloat are carrying troops and it is a grand sight to see them altogether.

Our battalion is composed of men from the Western Ontario regiments, and we are known as the First Ontarios. The organization of a regiment is changed from an 8-company to a 4-company regiment, same as our present cavalry organization. The Amherstburg boys and the others that came down with me form No. 1 Platoon of No. 1 Company. Our Company is commanded by Major Sutherland of the 24th Grey's Horse. We feel safe in his hands. Practically all of my Platoon are First Hussar men, and they feel highly honored in being put on the right flank of the first company. I am attaching a list of my men, giving their regimental numbers. It may be well to preserve it, as you will be able to follow them better when once we start on serious work.

Our life on board ship has been very pleasant and not hard work. Reveille is at 6.00 a.m. in the morning, the men have physical drill and the officers lectures. The afternoon is devoted to drill and lectures. At odd times we have fire drill, in five minutes every man is at his alarm station with his life belt on. Every morning the O. C. of troops and the Captain of the ship make an inspection of the men's quarters, every bed has to be neatly and uniformly made, their kit laid out on bed, the floor swept. If anything is out of order they are given extra fatigues to do in the form of peeling potatoes, swabbing decks, etc.

The boys will all be able to do house-work when they get home. Watching the men wash their clothes on wash day is worth while; some of them even take in washing so as to earn a little extra money.

We have concerts on board every few nights, and it would be hard to beat them. It is wonderful the amount of talent we have on this ship - every line of amusement you want. We don't lack for pleasure of any sort, as there are all kinds of games to be played on deck.

Our chaplain is a Belgian priest - he was only in Canada a few months. His home has been destroyed, and knowledge of his relatives was not at hand when we left. He is a fine specimen of man, jolly and kind-hearted. Talks to "my dear boys", as he calls us, at both the Roman Catholic and English church services. He is well liked by every one on board.

There were very few cases of seasickness coming over, didn't have time to be sick. The boys from home area looking fine and I from time to time will write and tell you about them. I would give lots to see an Echo just now. We do miss them.

Sincerely,

L.M. THOMAS. 1st Bri. C.E.F.

A rare coin is available for purchase through the Royal Canadian Mint. It is 10 oz. of fine silver, and commemorates the anniversary of the declaration of WWI. The image is that which the 1st Hussars might have seen as they sailed out on S.S. Laurentic – out of the Gaspé Peninsula and on route to battle.

Missed & Not Forgotten

By Michelle Lundy

PART I: November 2013

I had seen his face in so many of my grandfather "Red's" WWII photographs. As I browsed through the delicate memories caught on paper, I was amazed by the number of names and faces that had been captured on film, yet one face continually stood out to me. A man slightly taller than my grandpa - with a shy, slight smile.

Who was this man?

In Red & Dorothy's wedding photo, taken in England - August 1943, he stands next to my grandfather as his 'Best Man'.

They must have been good friends.

Had I met him?

I had met so many of my grandpa's Hussar friends when I was a child, but both Red & Dorothy have since passed away, and all I have are photos and no voice to tell me the stories.

I then came across my grandparent's marriage certificate. Upon closer inspection, I was able to decipher the witness name: J. J. Floyd.

Was this the name of the soldier whose identity had remained a mystery?

Meanwhile, I had become a volunteer on the 1st Hussars Museum Committee. I had a plethora of resources available to me, and kept my eyes peeled for any information on a soldier by the name of "J.J. Floyd". It was actually online that I came across an archived issue of the Bulletin, with a request from a woman who was looking for information on her grandfather "Jim Floyd".

I immediately contacted Mike Steele for a copy of that Bulletin. He was able to email me a copy and I attempted contact with the woman – who incidentally was someone I had gone to elementary school with! Unfortunately, the e-mail I sent had come back undeliverable.

Back at the 1st Hussars Museum, I had noticed that ‘Cpl Jim Floyd’ was one of the names embroidered on the infamous swastika quilt. I also came across a ‘B’ Squadron Casualty Report dated July 5, 1944. On the list of “Missing in Action” was Cpl. J.J. Floyd.

I again attempted to contact Jennifer, the woman searching for information on her grandfather. This time, I was able to locate her on Facebook and send a message through there. Albeit a strange message to write to someone, it turned out to be a success! Jennifer wrote back to me and we were able to exchange information. I sent her the photos and she was able to confirm that the familiar face was in fact her grandfather: Jim Floyd.

PART II: Who was Jim Floyd?

James John Floyd was a Corporal in ‘B’ Squadron with the 1st Hussars in WWII. He was one of the soldiers initially missing and captured by the Hitlerjungen after June 11th, 1944 - The Battle of Le Mesnil-Patry. In fact, I later discovered that out of the five men pictured below, Jim Floyd and Harry Gristey were the only ones to survive that ‘Black Day’.

L-R: J. Floyd, G. Huckell, H. Gristey, K. Pedlar, and R. Lafraniere

PART III: November 2014

On Remembrance Day 2014, I was volunteering at the 1st Hussars Museum with Steve Liggett. I was telling him the story of the mystery man in the photos who turned out to be Jim Floyd, and how I had found his granddaughter through an old issue of the Bulletin.

Shortly after, a man and his friends came in to browse and I asked them what brought them into the Museum. They had been to the service at the Cenotaph earlier.

"My grandfather was in ‘B’ Squadron of the 1st Hussars in WWII." said one of the visitors.

Naturally I was elated as I too had a grandpa who was in ‘B’ Squadron of the 1st Hussars in WWII.

"What was your grandfather's name?" I asked.

"Jim Floyd." he replied.

I was shocked. It seemed a mere 120 seconds had passed since I had recounted the story to Steve. I took the visitors directly to the WWII displays.

I pointed to the photo of ‘B’ Squadron.

"That is your grandfather, Jim Floyd...and that's my grandpa, Red McCormick. They are standing right next to each other."

He did not know of Red. He also did not know of my correspondence with his cousin Jennifer. I introduced myself and so did he. It turns out he is his grandfather's namesake: Jim Floyd.

I was able to show Jim and his friends around. I pointed out some artifacts in the Museum, including the casualty list and the swastika quilt. I also arranged to e-mail him the photos of his grandfather that I had. Although the story of Jim Floyd is far from complete, thus far it has been an extraordinary experience – including a Remembrance Day not to be forgotten!

1ST HUSSARS HOLLAND LIBERATION TOUR 2015

Tour Dates: May 01 - 09

LIVE THE VICTORY – REMEMBER THE SACRIFICE

Welcome Tour Participants....

2015 marks the 70th Anniversary of the liberation of the Netherlands and the end of World War II in Europe. The 1st Hussars in association with the 1st Hussars Regimental Association invite you to join them on a Liberation Tour through the Netherlands and the Rhineland in May 2015. This often overlooked campaign brought more decorations and more casualties to the 1st Hussars than earlier actions in France and Belgium during the Second World War. Serving soldiers of the Regiment will be joined by past-serving members, families, and friends of the 1st Hussars at Commonwealth War Graves Cemeteries and battlefields in addition to the official ceremonies and tributes in many of the cities and communities where the Regiment earned official battle honours. Opportunities to visit many of the world-class museums, sights, and attractions will also exist making this trip a unique and rare experience that promises to be moving and memorable for all who attend.
